MAKE A NOTE OF IT.

The Law in Reference to Boxing Exhibitions—Fits Fights are Cheaper.

The grand jury in stirring up the dry bones in reference to the boxing and sparring matches that have been held in Deatur, bearing their action on the following action of the revised statutes of Illinois in relation to Misdemeanors:

BOXING EXHIBITIONS—SECTION 235.— Whoever instigates, carries on, promotes or engages in as a witness, any sparring or boxing exhibition shall be fined not exceeding $500, or confined in the county jail not exceeding sixty days.

The above is the new law. The former penalty for like offense was a fine of $100 to $1,000 and imprisonment in the county jail 30 days to one year.

The "revised section" is enough, and if it is followed out strictly, there will be lively times about Deatur for some time to come, and the grand jury will have to get more blank indictments printed, as the witnesses of the two exhibitions that have been given already number fully 300, including many well known merchants and other citizens equally well-known who will doubtless be surprised to learn that they have unwittingly violated a decidedly interesting bit of Illinois law.

What the grand jury will do is a matter of speculation. They will learn that there were two exhibitions, and that soft gloves were used by the participants in the set to.

What will the harvest be?

Don't know.

It can be safely predicted, however, that after the publication of the above law.

That if any more exhibitions are given,
The audience will be thin.

The exhibition that was held at the opera house was advertised as an athletic entertainment, and not as a boxing or sparring match. About 200 people were present.

Dying.

Arthur Kinney cannot recover. He has been slowly dying since four o'clock this morning, and was very low at the hour of going to press. He was so weak this forenoon that he could scarcely lift his head. His death will remove from the community a valuable citizen—a young man of energy and enterprise, who will be greatly missed.

Electric Calls.

The enterprising Bradley Bros. of the New York dry goods store, have introduced electric bells in their establishment, by which the salesman at the various counters are enabled to summon the check boys quickly, in a noiseless manner and without the former confusion. The bells are at the bundle counter, where the boys are stationed. When the patron has completed his or her purchases, the salesman touches a button at the edge of the counter, the bell at the rear of the store jingles musically, and the boy at once responds to the call, going directly to the counter designated by the signal.

The wires, batteries and bells were installed by Elsworth Wade, of the Telephone Exchange office. The bankers phone office. The bankers have to be charged every three or four months. No doubt other Deatur stores will adopt the same excellent system for the cash boys.

The Home Concert.

The repetition of the choral and orchestral concert at the First Methodist church last night, proceeds for the benefit of the poor of the city, brought out a large audience, but not as many as the object and merit of the entertainment deserved. The same programme observed at the first performance, with but slight changes, was carried out under the direction of Prof. Lutz. The entertainment was of a high order throughout, and all present attested their appreciation of the most treat by enthusiastic marks of applause. The Deaturians have already given a review of the entertainment, and can only add that the second performance was fully as good, if not more finished, than the first. Last night Mrs. A. W.
Conklin sang with her customary grace and effect in the quartette, and Miss Emily Hamsher was the artistic pianist.

Miss Hadden again delighted the audience by her manipulation of the big organ, whose deep and clear tones rounded out the choruses and gave strength to the orchestra. Such grand musical festivals should be repeated frequently during the year.

The Deatur Degree Staff of Odd Fellows Lodge No. 68, of this city, held their attending the meeting of the grand lodge, where they exemplified the unwritten work.

The Little Nugget.

The only amusement attraction for next week is the celebrated "Little Nugget" comic nation. It will appear Thursday at 8 o'clock and evening, Thursday, Nov. 25th. The Lafayette Journal thus outlines the performance:

A large audience greeted the appearance of the Little Nugget comedy company at the Grand last night. Little Nugget is a three act comedy of interest. It is brimming with wit and humor, it is full of funny situations, and it is a real treat.

Miss J. S. soon as "Little Nugget" is a clever little actress, possesses a charming voice and was repeatedly encored.

Miss Simpson, the actress, is really clever, and is a real impersonator of the old Irish lady. Herbert S. Cawthorn, as Harvey O'Brady, the school teacher, made Billy Simpson look his part exceedingly well.

He has a good voice and his songs were encores again and again. He is very clever in his acting and is one of the best of the cast. There are a number of very pretty scenes in the play, among them the finest being the old mill scene.
The play is full of merit and must be seen to be fully enjoyed.

The testimony in the Christian Girl $5,000 damage case, now on trial in the circuit court before Judge Hughes and a jury, brings out many interesting points in connection with the German Baptist, or Dunkard church, located near Oakley.

The plaintiff was formerly a member of the church. He fell out with the brothers before he was accused of being insane. He had had some trouble with a Dunkard back in Pennsylvania, and he wanted the officials of the Oakley church to advise with him. One of the bishops who refused to do anything for Mr. Girl was Mr. Troxell, who was on the stand yesterday. He said he refused to assist Mr. Girl because he knew nothing about the Pennsylvania case. He further stated that Mr. Girl had declared the Oakley church to be mismanaged and would go to pieces because of the corruption of the officials. On the cross-examination by Mr. Orea for the defense, Bishop Troxell was closely questioned as to the manner of settling difficulties in the church.

The witness then quoted the following from the 18th chapter of St. Matthew:

15 Moreover if thy brother shall tread against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone, if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother.

16 But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established.

17 And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it to the church, but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen man and a publican.

The witness added that he had no difficulty with Girl, and therefore he refused to call the church together. All difficulties with members are settled according to the spirit of the above verses, and consequently it rarely happens that German Baptist brethren have occasion to appeal to the civil courts.

J. R. BACE & CO.

A stout old lady has a certain test which she applies to all young men who "pay attention" to any of her granddaughters.
After a certain time she offers him some of her home-made cake. If he eats it with avidity, she mutely gives consent, if not, she instantly begins to oppose the match—no, as some might suppose, from wounded vanity, but because she has a theory that men who like cake never drink to excess or live dissipated lives of any sort. "Give me," she says, "a man who loves ginger bread, it's a sure sign he isn't fond of whisky." is still on trial. The plaintiff rested his case yesterday afternoon and the defendants began to introduce testimony. This forenoon Attorney Buckingham read a lot of letters written by Mr. Girl to parties residing in the Dunkard neighborhood. The language is of a very pointed character. The letters have reference to the trouble of Mr. Girl with his family and the members of the church.

THE GRAND JURY

has taken a recess. The jury will take a lay off for a couple of weeks and then assemble again for business.

Death of Mrs. Robbins.

Mrs. Amanda Robbins, of Casco, Ill., died at her home at 9 p. m. Nov. 18 after an illness of four weeks. She was taken sick the evening after returning from the funeral of her brother-in-law, the late John Bentford. The first attack was bilious fever, and later ago she was attacked with diphtheria which, with the other affliction caused her death. The deceased was about 39 years of age, and was the wife of Harvey Robbins, a general merchant of Casco, and sister of Mrs.
J. M. Bower, of West North street, this city. She was well known in Deatur and vicinity, having lived in the Garver settlement a number of years before removing to Casco. She was a member of the M. E. Church, and a very earnest worker in both church and Sunday school. She leaves a husband, one son and two daughters, aged 13, 9 and 3 yrs.
The funeral will take place from the M.
E. church in Casco Saturday at 11 a. m.

The Irish Comedy.

It will be given to-night with Joe Murphy as the star. "Kerry Gow" is the work of Fred Marston, written to suit Joseph Murphy's agreeable style of impersonating the Irish character as he lives and breathes, and not as he is often represented by many of the star's rivals, the ragged vagabond, exaggerated in many respects and a caricature upon the original. Murphy is pleasing in everything he does. As Dan O'Hair, the village blacksmith, he is the good natured, witty and noble-hearted Irishman throughout, careful not to offend the most sensitive in his audience, and sufficiently broad in his humor to please everybody. There will be a horse on the stage, also carrier pigeons, and Joe will make a horsehead at his smith.
